

MAXIMIZE YOUR ROI WITH A REVIT HEALTH CHECK

Get your report today! How effective are you?

What is ATG's Revit Health Check?

If you are rolling out a new implementation of Revit software, you may want to understand how successful the first stage of implementation has been. The Revit Health Check will provide guidance as to where further training or mentoring may be appropriate, and an insight into how you can better realize the ROI that you are looking for.

To conduct the Revit Health Check, ATG's consultants review one of your completed projects of one or more files done by one or more disciplines, and spend a minimum of five days interviewing teams and analyzing the project files. Then ATG will generate a report detailing the strengths and weaknesses in the implementation. The report covers topics such as pain points in the modeling process, model optimization, industry best practices, and any inefficiency in the design process. It can also help serve as a benchmark against other projects.

Benefits

Review - Take advantage of our implementation experience by getting a review of the strengths and weaknesses in your current implementation of Revit software. Confirm that you are getting the best return on investment available to you with the tools.

Project Based- Demonstrate that you have managed your tools and team efficiently. Assess a building project designed using Revit software, whether multi-discipline, or in a single file.

Benchmark your Project Files - Review several project files, and compare their vital statistics for size, data integrity, and alignment to document and data requirements.

Skills Demonstrated - Learn how much your team understands.

To learn more

Call Rob Fisher 1-800-935-4894 (rfisher@atgusa.com) for details on this or ATG Consulting and Implementation Services, or visit our website at www.atgusa.com/services for more information.

Autodesk®

Gold Partner
Architecture, Engineering & Construction
Consulting Specialized
Building Engineering Specialized
MEP Systems

PartnerDirect
Registered

Microsoft Partner

Silver Enterprise Resource Planning
Silver Customer Relationship Management
Silver Midmarket Solution Provider

Get started today by calling 800-935-4894.